Symbolic culture, according to this hypothesis, comes to light in the body-decoration of women. The first human message is that addressed to the male group by the female group who, covered in red, the emblem of their menstrual blood, say a collective 'No', and offer the first exchange. Sex, says Knight, for meat.

Chris Knight (anthropologist) - Wikipedia

Menstruation, also known as a period or monthly, is the regular discharge of blood and mucosal tissue (known as menses) from the inner lining of the uterus through the vagina. The first period usually begins between twelve and fifteen years of age, a point in time known as menarche. However, periods may occasionally start as young as eight years old and still be considered normal.

MENSTRUATION AND THE ORIGINS OF CULTURE

During menstruation ("the menstrual period," Figure 3.1), part of the lining of the uterus, the stratum functionalis of the endometrium, degenerates and is sloughed off. This tissue dies by ischemia because the blood vessels that supply it with nutrients and oxygen begin to constrict and dilate spasmodically.
